VOLYNK IS A COUNTRY OF POVERTY

Soil is Thin and There Are Swamps, Marshes and Muddy Lakes Everywhere.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAPH)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—Volhynia, into which German outposts near Vladimir Volynsk have just penetrated, is now in the position of a buffer state between the rich Russian provinces to the east and the first lines of Teutonic invasion from Galicia over the southeastern reaches of the Bug river. This war theater, which lies across the path of any attempted advance upon Kiev, forms the subject of a sketch issued today by the National Geographic Society. The war primer reads: "Interposed between the fat lands of the Little Russians, in the south, and the flourishing metropolis of Kiev is a sketch of comparatively poor and undeveloped country included in the Russian government of Volhynia. There is a poverty, a dreary neediness to be found in this country, a lack of development and of primitive organization, such as the traveler finds duplicated when off the beaten tracks in the Caucasus. There is thin soil, swamp, marsh, muddy lakes and forests everywhere. Especially difficult, from a military point of view, is the northern part of the government, where the water-soggy earth and tangled forests slope into the impassable slough of the Pripiet swamps. Both Germans and Russians may endeavor to make the same use of this region that von Hindenburg made of the Masurian lakes.

"Volhynia has 27,700 square miles of area. Its northeastern part is included in the region of Polish swampy land, floating land and swamp. The southern division of the government, from the Galician borders west of Kiev, is roughly hilly and cut by deep river valleys. Abroad highland from the Carpathians stretches over this part of the province, to Kiev and the Dnieper river. The highest points in this hill country reach a height of 1,200 feet, while in the west reaching almost to Kovel, ranges of hills are scattered, reaching heights between 700 and 900 feet.

"The climate in the north is unusually bounding in windiness and moisture. Throughout all the northern parts there are no cities of consequence, no important foundations, and merely a primitive agriculture. The principal cities for the whole government are Zhitomir, the capital, Dubno, Kovel, Vladimir Volynsk, Kremenets, Lutsk, Ostrov, Rovno, Zaslavl, Ovruch, not one of which overreaches the importance of a village. More than half the country of the north just to the south and the east of Brest Litovsk is a bewildering maze of dense forest growth, and much of the remaining area is fever swamp and stagnant, sedge-filled lake. The soils in the south are good, but agriculture has been but slightly developed. Some twenty-five per cent of the land of the south lies under tillage.

"In this backward, lean and ill-favored country, manufacturing industries have hardly obtained a modest foothold. Some sugar and tobacco is manufactured here. There are also a few factories for the output of agricultural machinery, woolen textiles, glass and leather goods. Considerable home industry is carried on in the villages, the fabrication of goods through the time of winter imprisonment when the only means for earning a living is the felling and preparing of fuel wood in the dense forests. This home industry produces wood carvings, parquetry, amber lace. Many kegs of frozen mushrooms from this region reach the great larder markets of Russia every year. Amber is found, and some coal and lignite mined. The export of timber and firewood forms one of the most profitable industries, and one which occupies the peasant during the long winters, when, otherwise, complete inaction would be enforced. "Little and White Russians form the greater part of the population of the government, and, in the southern parts, there was a large sprinkling of German peasant colonists. The lands of this government have been inhabited by Slavs from remote antiquity. Some of the small towns biding for existence on their ancient sites were founded in the ninth century. The government is a poor and difficult field for the modern army."

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'if this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere—Advertisement.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, the Faded Little Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time" says Mrs. Jennie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pain, and I don't have to go to bed, in fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

The last amount of work that I could do, my head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am no longer bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed, in fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advice Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page booklet, "Cardui for Women," in plain language. 100-129

AN UP-TO-DATE COTTAGE

Designed by Chas. S. Sedgwick, Architect.

Here is an economical cottage to build, snug and compact, having many attractive features and combining all of the modern conveniences. It is suited to an east front, the main part is 25 ft. square, treated with a spreading cottage roof, giving it a low appearance at the same time the second story chambers are full height. There is a good basement 7 ft. high under the main part. The first and second stories each are 8 ft. high. It is good frame construction finished on the exterior with cement stucco, with a pebble dash finish down to the grade line.

The entrance is at the left side of a projected sun room, 11 ft. by 9 ft. 6 in. in the clear with glazed door at the entrance and glazed French doors opening into the living room which is 20 ft. 6 in. in width by 12 ft. 6 in. in depth, one central chimney with wide fireplace in the living room. The dining room back on the left side with recessed sideboard and connecting through a pantry into the kitchen, also a convenient tin closet from the kitchen. At the rear is an enclosed porch with platform for refrigerator. The stairs are at the right of living room and a convenient coat closet in front of the stairs. This floor is finished in oak in mission stained and oak floors.

The second story has three good chambers with ample clothes closets and a clothes chute extending down to basement, a convenient bath room is located over the kitchen. The arrangement of the rooms and hall in the second story is unusual with no waste space. A glazed door at the rear end of hall opens onto a screened-in sleeping porch. This story is finished in pine and painted white with birch floor. All exterior trimmings are painted white and the roof shingles stained red. It is estimated to build this cottage for a sum not less than $2,200 nor more than $2,800 exclusive of heating and plumbing.
